

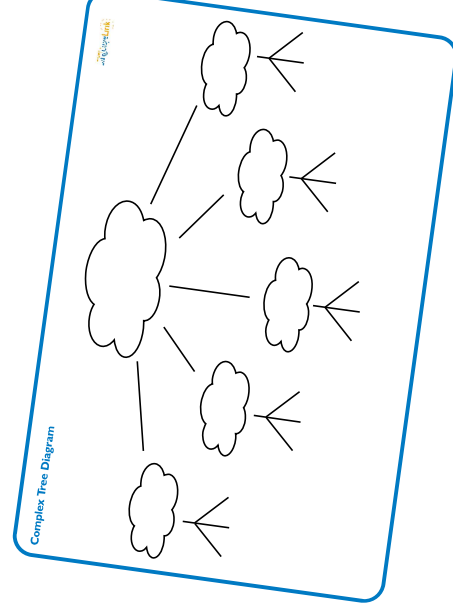

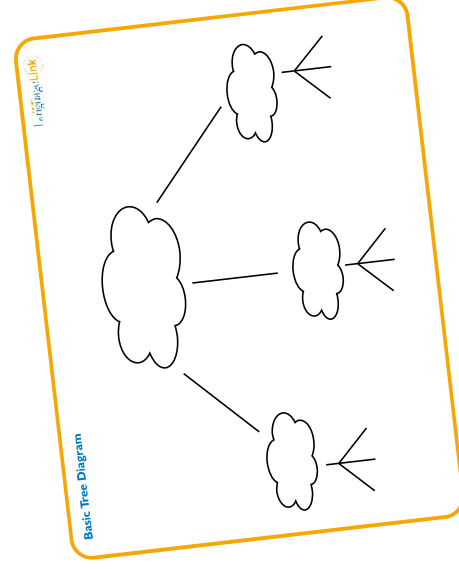

Graphic Organisers

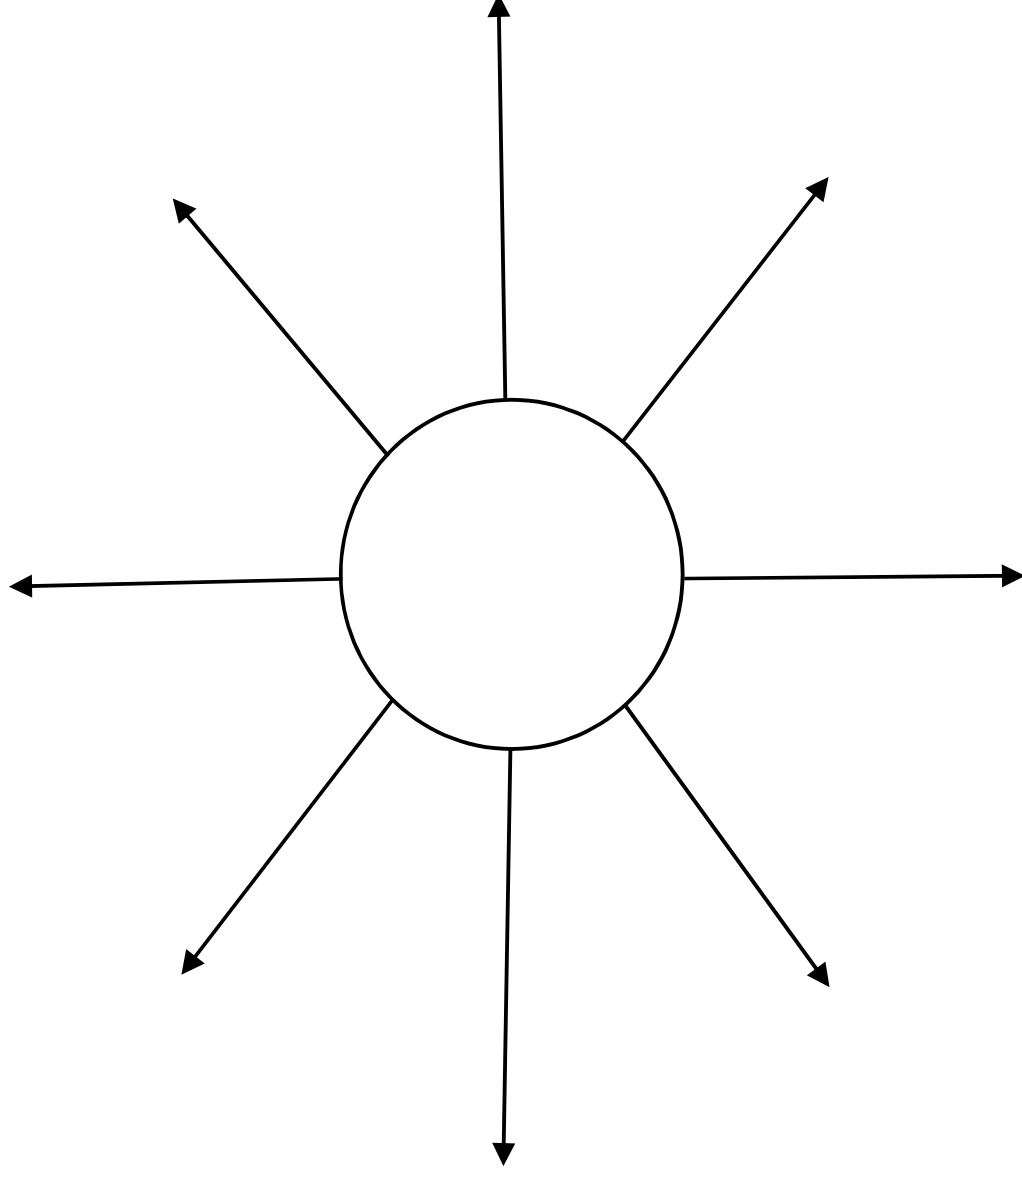

Objective: Graphic Organisers can help students classify ideas and communicate more effectively using visual symbols or short phrases to express knowledge, concepts, thoughts or ideas, and the relationship between them.

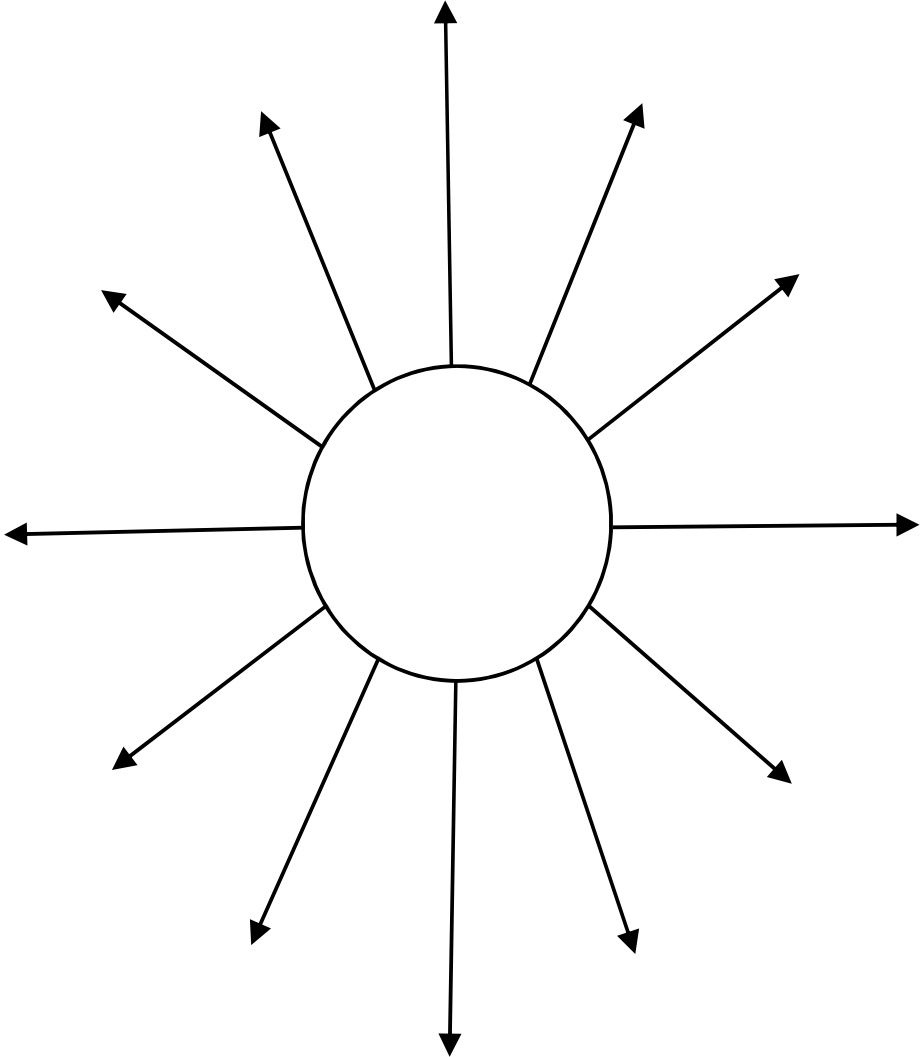

When To Use: Graphic Organisers can be used by you to present information in a visual way or by students to record information, ideas or thinking in a visual way.

How To Use: Practise using Graphic Organisers as a whole class to generate, sort, sequence or compare ideas. Provide opportunities for students to use them during lessons to record their knowledge and ideas, support problem solving and decision making or to plan for written work. There are two versions of each organiser to help you choose the right level for your students. The organisers with the yellow borders are the more basic level and the ones with the blue borders are more complex requiring more input from the students.

Other Ideas: Providing a selection of appropriate Graphic Organisers for students to use to complete set tasks will help them to develop independence in choosing appropriate ways of recording information. Once students become confident in choosing an appropriate format, store copies of the Graphic Organisers in the classroom so they can help themselves.
